THE DAILY NEWS.

RALEIGH, N. C., TUESDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 3, 1872. NO. 159.

WILLIAMSON, UPCHURCH & THOMAS.—Our notice of this new firm was crowded out yesterday. The senior members, Messrs. Williamson and Upchurch are too well known in our midst to require any recommendation or even a lisement at our hands.

Mr. J. J. Thomas, Jr., the junior member, was lately connected with the popular Commission House of Hawkins, Williamson & Co., Baltimore, and is a gentleman of high character and fine business qualities. We welcome him to our city, and bespeak for the new house a large and extensive patronage.

LOYD PERRY.—We notice in the interesting letter of the Maine correspondent of the Washington Patriot, that P. W. Perry, the Revenue Supervisor of the "Carolinas," is now engaged in the Maine canvass, and is spending money very lavishly. Perry knows on which side his bread is buttered, and hence his activity.

PREMIUMS AT THE HENDERSON FAIR.—We have received from Dr. W. W. Young, the efficient Secretary, a list of premiums for the next Fair of the Central Agricultural Society of Granville, to be held in Warren and Franklin, 9th, 10th and Henderson on the 8th, 11th of October, 1872. The list seems to be a very liberal one. See items of our correspondent "Dixie" elsewhere.

IDLEWILD.—See the advertisement of IDLEWILD, which appeared in our columns yesterday morning.

This highly valuable property on Newbern street, situated in one of the most flourishing and attractive parts of the city, will be sold at the Court House door at Raleigh, on the 16th of October.

DID NOT QUALIFY.—The Era learns that Mr. Thos. C. Smith, County Surveyor, elect, appeared before the Board of County Commissioners on Monday, and tendered his resignation. The Board will fill the vacancy on Tuesday, the 10th inst.

INSURANCE.—See advertisement of Maj. R. G. Hay, General Agent of the Security Life Insurance and Annuity Company of New York.

Maj. Hay is an excellent Agent and reliable gentleman, and would not be connected with any but a first class and responsible company.

FATAL.—We gave an account of the difficulty between Austin Matthews and Charles Johnston, both colored, in this city a few days ago. Matthews who had stabbed in the abdomen was not considered in danger until yesterday, when he became suddenly worse and died in a few hours. Johnston was committed to jail.

QUALIFIED.—The following county officers duly qualified on yesterday by giving the necessary bond, and taking the usual oath of office: Timothy F. Lee, Sheriff, J. N. Bunting, Superior Court Clerk and Probate Judge, W. W. White, Register of Deeds, W. M. Brown, Treasurer, and Albert Magnin, Coroner.

EDITOR AT LAST.—We have heretofore neglected to notice that J. C. Logan Harris, "who until further notice," had charge of the editorial columns of the Era, has been advanced to a full-fledged editor, and is now the commander in chief of the Radical organ.

GOOD AUTHORITY.—The Wilmington Post says the branch bank to be established at Goldsboro, N. C., is to be put in operation by Wilmington, not by Raleigh, as stated by us.

We received the information from one of the banking men of this city, and we considered him very good authority.

ARRIVALS.—Among the arrivals at the Yarboro House on Saturday last, we notice the names of Titus Hammersley, Mrs Hammersley and four girls and Miss Hammersley, from Stokes upon Trent, England.

IN BALTIMORE.—We notice among the arrivals in Baltimore on last Saturday, the name of A. C. Sanders, of this city at the Maltby House.

Lightning Among the Lions—Scene in a Menagerie.

A correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, writing from Davenport, Iowa, says:

Adam Forepaugh is a famous showman, but he has never offered to the public so thrilling and extraordinary an exhibition as that which "might have been seen" at a point near Pleasant Hill, about seven miles from Davenport, on Monday morning before daylight. The scene was that of menagerie attacked by a thunder storm of unusual ferocity in the dead of night.

Mr. Forepaugh's establishment, consisting of menagerie, museum and circus, exhibited at De Witt, Iowa, on Saturday, August 17, and at midnight started for Davenport, where it was to exhibit on the 19th. At Pleasant Hill, a small village, it encountered one of the most terrific storms of thunder, lightning and rain ever experienced in this part of the country. It was about 2 o'clock on Monday morning when the storm broke upon the caravan. There were 175 dens of cages of wild beasts and birds, a museum equipage, baggage wagons, &c., drawn by 500 horses, and following the great chariot. This, in turn, was preceded by a dozen camels, and the elephant Romeo Jr.

As the storm increased in fury, the chariot horses became unmanageable, and started at a fearful speed. The camels, unable to stand, crouched down by the roadside, trembling with fear, and the elephant lay down in the middle of the road, and stubbornly refused to rise, completely fronting the further progress of the long train of cages, which were scattered along the road for nearly two miles.

The animals, thoroughly frightened, mingled their cries and roars with the deafening thunder, and bounded from side to side of their cages with tremendous force. This caused many of the horses to follow the example of those before the chariot, and as no further progress could be made, the whole train soon became inextricably confused. To make 'confusion worse confounded,' the driver of the lion cage was hurled from his seat by the falling of his wheel horse, and over went the cage containing four large lions.

The museum wagon, containing the "Lord's Supper," was struck by lightning, and one of the Twelve Apostles laid low. As yet the worst had not come. The anger fury of the storm and the terror of the scene demoralized about twenty drivers, who had been hired a few days previous, and in a most cowardly manner deserted their horses and fled to the woods. One of these cages left drivers contained a gnu or horned horse, a vicious and unamiable brute, and the horses, plunging from one side of the road to the other, overturned the cage, causing the top to break open. Instantly the brute leaped into the road, and, overturning a cage filled with monkeys, darted off into the woods.

The situation of the caravan at this juncture was very critical, as may be readily imagined. There was the pitch-black darkness of the night contesting with the lurid glare of the lightning. There was the drenching rain pouring down in sheets. There was the almost constant roar of thunder. The roar of enraged tigers, the neigh of frightened horses, the wail of a hundred animals, some to be feared and others to be pitied—all were concentrated. Trees fell around. Horses dashed hither and thither, crashing the vans which they drew, and scattering their contents. One of the drivers, who still remained faithful and courageous, was killed in his seat by a shock of lightning. No wonder that men's hearts yielded, and that among the less bold of them a panic and stampede set in, which promised to end with the total ruin of the caravan.

This was doubtless averted only by the appearance at the front of Colonel Forepaugh, who had been following the train, and who had come up as rapidly as possible on realizing the dangers of the situation. He ordered the horses to be detached from the animal cages, and the wagons corralled. The lion cage was righted and a detail sent to recapture the escaped gnu.

Daylight dawned and the storm abated. Ten horses had been killed by lightning, four drivers were injured seriously and one killed. With the assistance of farmers in the vicinity, the menagerie matters in a presentable shape, including even the surviving apostles, eight in number.

R. M. T. Hunter, of Va., in answer to an invitation to speak at the great mass meeting to be held in New York next month, writes, assuring the Committee that he gives his "hearty support to Mr. Greeley and in the interest of national harmony." He says that he "cannot see how any true patriot could hesitate between Grant and Greeley," and concludes his letter by informing the Committee that he "regrets very much that it is impossible to address the citizens of New York, but trusts that another opportunity will soon offer."

The Atlanta Constitution says: It has been discovered that several bills that passed the Legislature have been abstracted. Orders stolen from the Executive office, and many are missing. It is not yet known. This is a curious style of theft.

A city directory is announced for Raleigh, in alphabetical order, names of all persons who have declared bankrupt, separated from wives, or condemned by the courts.

Wagon Train Attacked by Indians.

TOPEKA, Sept. 1.

The Commonwealth has the following Indian news from Colorado:

E. H. Stanly, of Fort Lyon arrived in this city this evening from Denver, he reports that Monday last a Government train consisting of thirty-six mule teams loaded with army supplies for Fort Lyon, was proceeding along dry Creek between Carson city and Fort Lyon, Colorado under the command of Steve Bryan, the wagon master, and while in the valley of Dry Creek the train was mired in the sand, while thus delayed the band of two hundred Apaho warriors under the command of their Chief Little Raven, made an attack which their equals in outrage and ferocity was any annals of Indian massacre—the wagons were burned, and all the contents that could be carried off were taken. Mules were run off, and fifteen men left wounded clinging to the train were killed or dead on the bloody field.

Mr. Bryan was burned alive from head to foot by these fiends. Besides these, fifteen men are missing. Besides supposed to have been killed, they are carried into captivity.

The train was under the escort of Lieutenant McFarland, of the 6th U. S. Cavalry, with one hundred men, but being nine miles in the rear at the time of the massacre, no protection could be afforded. Stanly was with the escort and when it arrived at the terrible scene the savage were just retiring, whetting their tomahawks and shouting in mad glee over their ill-gotten gains.

The Alaska brought the following news, of the 7th August, from Yokohama: "The Kioto expedition will reopen again on Tuesday. The prospect system will be adopted, with security of thirty dollars, that no foreigner will carry on any business whatever while there, peddling expecially, which is most objectionable until Japan agrees by treaty to open the up country. The above rule will be strictly adhered to, and visitors will be treated and considered accordingly, and no impediment will be made to their expenditure of money.

The complete list of passengers from Bieuville shows, there were sixty two, which with the crew make about ninty-two persons; thirty-six still to be heard from. Seven persons were drowned, when one boat capsized on leaving the vessel and nine more were drown in surf at Elenthera. It is hoped that the thirty-six who were in the boat has not yet been heard from, but they have been saved as there has been but little wind and slight sea, and the boat is adrift in one great highway's commerce, where it is likely to be picked up.

MIDNIGHT DISPATCHES.

Troubles Between Texians and Mexicans.

NEW ORLEANS, September 2.

The Brownsville, Nueces Valley stock raisers, who have been giving important information before the Border Commissioners, left yesterday. Fears are entertained that they will be attacked by the Mexican outlaws, a conspiracy to that effect having discovered. The aggregate claims before the Commission is reported to be over eight millions. The general opinion is that searching investigation has been made of the troubles on the lower Rio Grande. Satisfaction is expressed at the general result. Anxiety exists among Texans to learn the proposed line of action by the United States Government, regarding these claims. The Commissioners left to-day for Rio Grande City by steamer, to make personal examinations of localities of cattle depredations, and further official enquiry.

General Cortina has issued a circular addressed to the people of both frontiers, denying the complicity in cattle thefts, and appealing to their general good opinion. He charges General Palacios, recently commander at Mattamoras, with making unfounded reports on his conduct, and is very indignant towards General McCook, and the United States Consul at Mattamoras, for their effort to procure his dismissal from the command of the line of Rio Bravo.

Duncan responded that Custer's informant was a "liar." Dr. Kellar said, I am responsible for the statement and demand a retraction. Duncan refused, when Kellar struck him violently in the face. Duncan reeled but did not fall, catching by the chair with which he attempted to strike Dr. Kellar. Several blows passed when the parties were separated.

Judge Louis Dent attacked Mr. Reed, one of the editors of the Capitol, with a cane, on account of an article in yesterday's Capitol, charging Mr. Dent and his brother, General Dent, with being concerned in securing a consular appointment for a pecuniary consideration. According to Mr. Reed's statement, Dent struck him with his (Reed's) cane while the latter was at the desk with his feet cramped underneath, and that he made the attack without explanation. Another statement is that Dent being informed by Reed as to his responsibility for the article, called upon the latter to defend himself, and immediately made an attack. A scuffle ensued as soon as Reed could get up, and the attachees of the Capitol establishment rushing in, separated the parties. Reed received two scalp wounds, and a cut on the temple. Dent was subsequently arrested and bailed on his own recognizance for hearing tomorrow, on the charge of assault and battery.

HERE AND THERE.—

A PERFECT POEM.—The following little poem from the graceful pen of William Wallace Harney, one of the editors of the Louisville Democrat, was first published some years ago, and was universally admired. George D. Prentice, than whom there is no better judge, pronounced it a "perfect poem:"

THE STAB.

BY WILL WALLACE HARNEY.

On the road, the lonely road,
Under the cold white moon;
Under the rugged trees he strode,
Whistled and shifted his heavy load:
Whistled a foolish tune.

There was a step, timed with his own,
A figure that stooped and bowed;
A cold white blade that flashed and shone,
Like a splinter of day-light downward thrown—
And the moon went behind a cloud.

But the moon came out so broad and good
The barn-fowl woke and crowed,
Then roughed his feathers in drowsy mood,
And the brown owl called to his mate in the woods
That a man lay dead in the road.

THE RICHEST JOKE OF THE SEASON.—Maj. C. W. Gassette, who voted the whole Radical ticket at the election in this State, and who was especially active for Maj. W. A. Smith, the Radical nominee for Congress, left Raleigh on Saturday evening to attend the Louisville Straight-Out Democratic Convention, which meets on the 3rd of September.

If Gassett is a fair sample of the Louisville delegates, the Convention will be Ralical-root and branch.

A gentleman of this city informs us that he saw Gassette vote the entire Radical ticket without scratching on the 1st of August.

If there was a Democrat in the State disposed to support the Louisville Convention, the fact that Gassette, who supported Caldwell, assumes to represent North Carolina in a strright-out Democratic Convention, should be sufficient evidence to convince him that the whole concern is a huge humbug and a cheat.

Gassette a straight-out Democratic delegate!

Well, that is the richest joke of the season.

THE RIDGEWAY CONCERT.—The Concert at Ridgeway to night promises to be one of the most interesting affairs witnessed in that section for years. Musical talent of a very high order has been engaged, and the laudable purpose had in view, to aid the "Church of the Good Shepherd," will doutless draw a large crowd. We hope to see Raleigh largely represented on the occasion, and can promise all who may go a rich musical treat. Woodson will be on hand, and will be a "chiel amang them, taken notes, an faith he'll print it."

IRREVERENCE.

"THERE MAY BE SOME DEMOCRATS PRESENT WHO ARE REPENTANT AND I LIKE TO PREACH TO SINNERS. YOU HAVE HEARD OF THE FELLOW WHO SAID I CAME NOT TO CALL THE RIGHTEOUS, BUT SINNERS, TO REPENTANCE.'"—Delano, Grand Secretary of Interior, in his speech [illegible] Raleigh.

IN THIS FAITH I SAY THAT IF ELECTED, I SHALL UNDERSTAND THAT I AM NOT OF A PARTY, BUT OF THE PEOPLE, I ACCEPT YOUR NOMINATION IN THE CONFIDENT TRUST THAT THE MASSES OF OUR COUNTRYMEN, NORTH AND SOUTH, ARE EAGER TO CLASP HANDS ACROSS THE BLOODY CHASM, WHICH HAS TOO LONG DIVIDED THEM, FORGETTING THAT THEY HAVE BEEN ENEMIES, IN THE JOYFUL CONSCIOUSNESS THAT THEY ARE, AND MUST HENCEFORTH REMAIN, BRETHREN.—HORACE GREELEY.

"We want a President without a party; a government without corruption; a Congress without price; and a Judiciary without politics."—B. Gratz Brown.

A REQUEST.

We would be glad to get the full name and Post Office address of every member elect to the Legislature, so that we may publish a correct list for the information of the public. The first list published by us was very inaccurate, although we notice it continues to be copied by our cotemporaries.

Will not some friend in each County send us the desired information concerning his own member or members?

THE RADICAL ORGAN ADVISING RESISTANCE TO THE LAW.

No one will be surprised to read the following extract from the Carolina Era, the Radical State organ. The Era says:

"We are satisfied that Caldwell received a majority of the legal votes cast, and we hope he will maintain his rights in the premises, by moderate means—at the point of the bayonet—if necessary. Republicans will not submit to be Ku Kluxed our of their victory."

The Era seems to be very anxious for bloodshed. It talks glibly about resisting by force—at the point of the bayonet, and the like belligerent expressions.

We advise that paper to preserve its temper and to keep cool. Now if anything were needed to convince the public that the Radicals committed shameful friends in the election, the language of the Era above quoted would satisfy every unprejudiced man of the truthfulness of the charges.

The Era would have Caldwell resort to the bayonet to "maintain his rights."

If it thinks its threats will have the slightest influence upon the action of the Democratic party, it is certainly vastly mistaken.

For its information, we will state that we are collecting evidences of fraud in various sections of the State and we will continue to do so unti every fraudulent vote that can be traced, will be brought to light. If it can be proved by ample legal testimony that Judge Merrimon received more bona fide votes than Gov. Caldwell, Merrimon will be seated, and Caldwell consigned to private life.

If sufficient frauds are not proved to elect Merrimon, Caldwell will of course be duly installed in office.

We intend to stand by the law, in all events and at all hazards.

We do not intend to yield anything that the law gives us; neither do we contend for anything outside of the law.

Let the Era continue its boasts and its threats. They pass us by, as "the idle wind which we regard not."

Our position is taken—and we intend to maintain it before the country.

We will not recede from our purpose—we stand upon impregnable grounds.

JUSTICE AND MERCY.

The quality of mercy is not strained;
It droppeth as the gentle rain from Heaven
Upon the place beneath; it is twice blessed;
It blesseth him that gives, and him that takes.
'Tis mightiest in the mightiest; it becomes
The throned monarch better than his crown:
His sceptre shows the force of temporal power,
The attribute to awe and majesty,
Wherein doth sit the dread and fear of Kings;
But mercy is above this sceptred sway,
It is enthroned in the hearts of Kings,
It is an attribute to God himself,
And earthly power doth then show likest God,
When mercy seasons justice.
[MERCHANT OF VENICE.

The spirit of political Shylocks has crept into the souls of North Carolina officials.

The pound of flesh they demand—nearest the hearts of their victims.

Four of the Albany Ku Klux prisoners were recently recommended to President Grant, as worthy of being released from prison, and their pardons were being made out, when a dispatch was received at Washington City, by the Attorney General, from OFFICIAL SOURCES in North Carolina, remonstrating against the act of Executive clemency!

The names of the official wretches who have thus interposed their political malice to stay the out-stretched hand of mercy, should be published for the information of mankind.

We want the world to know who they are in North Carolina that have no pity in their souls—no forgiveness in their hearts!

The Ku Klux prisoners sent to Albany from this State have now been incarcerated over twelve months.

They may be culprits—they may have deserved punishment. We do not here undertake to pass on their guilt or innocence.

The Radical Administration, after an investigation into their cases, has ordered the release of them from captivity.

But some of them in official circles in North Carolina, step forward, and say "NO!" Forthwith the pardons are withheld.

The pure air of Heaven is sweet.

The bright sunshine is cheerful to the doomed convict.

Domestic happiness and fireside joys are dear to the human heart.

But no plea for mercy—no prayer for liberty—no picture of mortal suffering—no groans of heart-agony and woe—no no scenes of helplessness—no appeals, silent they may be, but none the less affecting and eloquent, of disconsolate wives and innocent, prattling infants, can move the hearts of the creatures who claim to be human, but who gloat with fiendish delight and demoniac glee over the cheerless and joyless fate of the poor unfortunates, doomed to the horrors of the darken felons' cells.

A prayer against mercy goes up from official sources in North Carolina!

The ear of justice is deaf to the tale of sorrow!

Has every noble impulse been deluded—every human feeling extinguished—every God-like sentiment fergotten by persons in our State, who, "dressed in a little brief authority,"

"Play such fantastic tricks before high Heaven,
As make the angels weep?"

We insist on the names of those individuals in "official circles," who have astonished the nation by this exhibition of inhumanity and heartlessness.

Let their names be published that the present generation and generations yet to come, may shudder at the contemplation of their brutality and fiendishness.

STANLEY AND LIVINGSTONE.

The truth of Stanley's statement concerning the discovery of Dr. Livingstone, is doubted by a number of intelligent gentlemen; and the letters purporting to be written by Livingstone to James Gordon Bennett and others, are pronounced forgeries.

The Herald comes manfully to the support of Stanley, of course, but there are many doubting Thomases who will not be convinced.

If Stanley is an imposter, he has certainly managed his cards with great dexterity and cunning. The crowned heads of Europe are now engaged in bestowing honors and gifts upon him, and his society is eagerly courted by European savans.

In our issue of yestesday, we published the Queen's letter of thanks to Stanley, accompanied by a magnificent and costly snuff box—for his heroical and successful efforts in search of the long-lost Livingstone.

"WILL NOT CONTEST."

The Greensboro New North State is credibly informed that a few days ago, at Old Fort, Judge Merrimon, being asked if he would contest the election, replied he had been fairly defeated and would not contest.—Carolina Era.

We ask the New North State for the name of its credible informant.

We are sure Judge Merrimon made no such statement.

Judge Merrimon's position is precisely the same with that occupied by the Democratic press of the State, speaking the unanimous voice of the party.

If evidence of sufficient fraud to overcome Caldwell's majority be forwarded to the State Executive Committee, Judge Merrimon will contest, as well as every other candidate on our State ticket.

We know Judge Merrimon's views. He will do whatever his duty to his party and to his country requires.

One widow to every 800 inhabitants in San Francisco.

HUNTING UP THE FRAUDS.

The Radicals deny that colored men from Washington city voted in North Carolina for Caldwell.

We have already shown that the steamer Charlott Vanderbilt left Washington City on the 27th of July, with seven hundren negro repeaters, sent out by the Board of Public Works of that city, to vote in this State.

The Liberal Committee of Washington have obtained a number of affidavits showing beyond a doubt that these negroes were sent to the State and paid to vote the Radical ticket.

The affidavits are from the colored men who voted, and furnish incontestable evidence of the outrageous frauds practiced by Radical officials to carry the election at all hazards.

VERMONT TO-DAY.

The State election in Vermont takes place to-day.

At the last Presidential election Grant's majority was over thirty thousand. This will be considerably reduced.

The canvass has been an active one, and many converts have been made to the Liberal and Democratic cause.

There is but little outside interest being in the result, as most of the Grant.

With the exception of Vermont, all not get more than four or five Mr. Doolittle says he hers in the Union.

LOUISVILLE.

Grant-Duncan Convention to Greeley a straight-out Democratic nominee meets at Louisville to-day.

The Washington Patriot of Friday, publishes several letters from Edmunds, the Radical Post Master at Washington City, showing that the Radicals have given the affair what little notoriety attaches to it.

The only delegate we have heard of from this State voted the Radical ticket in the late election.

As a Democratic Convention, the Louisville concern is a dead failure.

GOV. CURTIN FOR GREELEY.

Gov. Curtin, who is now dangerously ill, has been claimed by the Radicals as favorable to the election of Grant.

The New York Tribune denies this and says that Curtin is positively for Greeley and Brown.

It is a favorite game of the Radicals to claim everybody and anybody whose name will aid in proping their falling cause. By the way we notice that John G. Saxe, the poet, in language stronger than polite, denounces the statement that he is an advocate of Grant. He authorizes a relative to contradict the slander.

RUBIES AND SAPPHIRES IN NORTH CAROLINA.

We are pleased to see from the following extract of the proceedings of the American Association for the advancement of science now in session at Dubuque, that our State Geologist, Prof. Kerr, is taking an active part. The mountains of North Carolina teem with valuable mineral and metalic treasures. Let them be made known and developed.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE RUBY AND SAPPHIRE.

This subject is a specialty with Prof. J. Lawrence Smith, of Louisville. In opening the subject, he expressed his opinion that the lapidaries of America are not surpassed by those of any country in skill and taste in setting gems. The diamond, ruby and sapphire most nearly approximate simple substances of any precious stones; this accidental fact is curious in connection with their great variety and value. The diamond is pure carbon, the ruby and sapphire are almost pure alumina—that is, a combination of aluminium, the metalic basis of clay, with oxygen. But if you were to extract all the aluminium contained in the ruby and all the oxygen, you would find these two elements occupying vastly greater space than in the ruby. There is in this gem a tremendous condensation of these two elements, and it is one of the most mysterious circumstances that the aluminium, which seems to, when separated, a solid metal, can be so much further condensed. Corundum is the common name of the minerals in which rubies occur. Some months ago the Professor had some mineralogical specimens sent him from Montana, among which he found small rubies and sapphires. They are similar to the true oriental gems, and are transparent, and show to great advantage when polished. These were shown to the Association. As to the so-called diamonds discovered in this country, the Professor did not believe they were diamonds; but they were colorless sapphires, which if properly cut are nearly if not quite as brilliant as the diamond, and will scratch every other mineral except the diamond itself. This is doubtless the whole fact in relation to the mooted diamond discoveries of Arizona. When rubies or sapphires exceed a given size or diameter, they are of greater value than diamonds. Large deposits of valuable corundum have been found in North Carolina. Among them there have been found many gems nearly perfect, and quite recently in Buncombe county rubies and sapphires have been discovered which have gone into jewelers' hands for cutting, and are regarded as of very considerable value. The deepest blue sapphires and the faintest blush rubies are the most valuable.

Prof. Kerr wished to add a correction as to the precise location of the discoveries in North Carolina. The chief discoveries have been in Macon and Cherokee counties, where the mining of corundum is carried on to a great extent. A ruby has been found of the weight of a pound. A crystal of ruby and sapphire corundum, weighing 315 pounds, has been sold for $350. These specimens are all found in beds of chrysolite which extend into Georgia, a distance of 100 miles; that is, corundum is only found in chrysolite. Prof. Kerr has recently seen one of these crystals which had partially become tourmaline—at least one half of it having become metamorphosed into that stone. Another specimen exhibited a smaller metamorphosis of a portion of corundum into chlorite. Prof. Smith stated that what is called the oriental emerald—not the real emerald—is a green sapphire, and is, if of good tint, more valuable than the real emerald.

Tragedy in Madison—the Venerable Mike Sanford Shot by His Son—The Old Turfite Dying—Arrest of Melville, the Parricide.

Eighteen miles from Newark, on the Morris & Essex railroad, the beautiful village of Madison, where Nature has been particularly lavish of her favors, and where wealth and taste have done much to beautify the landscape. Madison is the residence of many well known Jerseymen and the Summer home of wealthy New Yorkers.

Within a stone's throw of the station stands the Waverly House—a antique wooden structure, with Gothic windows. It stands at the corner of Waverly place and the Chatham road, and is shaded by fine elms and other trees, which are a marked feauture of the locality.

The hotel was occupied for many years by Col. Hunting, but, wishing to retire from business the place was sold at auction and was bought by Mr. Paulmin, the owner of the principal store, who rented it to Michael Sandford, who is well known in Newark and who for many years kept the old South Ward hotel, the site of which is now occupied by the Universalist church. From here Mr. Sandford went direct to Madison. Here he established a good reputation as an innkeeper and was much liked, but here he was confronted by George Shepherd Page, who succeeded in destroying his business in a great measure, through the enactment known as the Chathaw Local Oytion law. The place being a great resort for transient travelers and teamsters, it could not sustain itself simply with boarders, few ever stopping there over night, and when Mr. Sandford's license came to an end the house was temporarily closed, but was afterwards reopened. The constitutionality of the law was the subject of legislative investitation before the Supreme Court,—Pitney, of Morristown, and other counsel acting for Mr. Sandford.

It is very possible that this trouble operated to work on Mr. Sandford's mind and to somewhat unsettle his reason. He had a large family to support, and he had gone to heavy expense in the suit. Chatham had been made a vicarious sacrifice for the sins of the whole State, and Mr. Sandford, as quiet and respected a hotel-keeper as any in the State, was to be ruined, while others were allowed to pursue the same calling in freedom.

Yesterday Mr. Sandford visited Newark, and although he has not been known to drink to excess for years, it is possible he may have been somewhat in liquor on his return. Of this in the present stage of the proceedings it is impossible to know, but it is quite certain that between nine and ten o'clock in the evening he was in a state of frenzy, and attacked his wife. He had a knife in his hand, but he did not strike her with this. Alarmed at the noise, his eldest son, Melville, a rather slim, delicate young man, entered the room, and in his efforts to protect his mother was also attacked by the infuriated man. Unfortunately the son carried a loaded pistol, and under the momentary influence of nervousness or fear, he drew it and shot his own father.

No one supposes that Melville intentionally committed the death, and it is likely that the shot was fired either at random, with the design to intimidate the old man, or in self-defense, under the impression that his own life and that of his mother were in danger.

The shot took effect in the abdomen, and Mr. Sandford fell to the floor. The neighborhood, very soon aroused, was [illegible] Physicians in the [illegible] were in attendance. Young Sandford was taken to Morristown to await the result and the decision of the case. This morning Mr. Sandford was alive, with a little or no hope of recovery. Journal Aug. 29th.
